

mrtimes.com    24 pages with REW Page A4 and A15

Refreshing experience

The third annual Bike to Farm allowed people to tour local agri-tourism sites. More photos on A9.

Bike to Farm cyclists quenched their thirst during a farm tour stop Sunday at Lorea McCready's veggie patch. Budding entrepreneurs including 12-year-old Ernie Starratt and his 11-year-old sister Maggie, Johnny Jansen, 11, and eight-year-olds May Braun and Brydon McCready sold lemonade.

Rick Moyer/TIMES

Faces & Places

Got photos? Do you have a local photo of someone or some place you'd like to share with the rest of Maple Ridge and Pitt Meadows? Email it to us as a high-resolution JPEG to editorial@mrimes.com. Please include a brief description, including everyone's first and last name. Put "Faces & Places" in the subject line of your email.

More online

Riding from farm to farm:

A number of cyclists participated in the third annual Bike to Farms ride all day Sunday. It took them to Brookfield Farm, Lorea McCreedy's veggie garden (inset), and the Red Barn Plants and Produce. One of the stops was at Big Feast Bistro, for a visit with general manager Craig Storer.

